KNITWITCH

by Rosemary {Romi} Hill

❤ DESIGNS BY ROMI

This pattern is part of a collection celebrating Romi's online knitting friends. ❦ knitwitchnj is a member of my Ravelry group. I don't know her personally, but I love her Ravelry name so much that I wanted to use it for this shawl instead of her given one.

I imagine her – like Mrs. Weasley of Harry Potter fame – waving her wand and whipping up lovely bits of knitting. When she is finished with the lacy version of this shawl, she decides that she likes beads, and – just like that! – she whips up a squishy stockinette stitch version with beads for a friend who adores a little bling. She loves them both, but they aren't her colors. What to do? Yes! Another two fly off the needles with ease, one landing in her FO drawer and the other wrapping itself around her neck for a little extra warmth.

NOTE: bind-off uses a reverse stockinette i-cord. The concept is the same as regular i-cord in that you move the yarn around the needle rather than over the needle to create the i-cord tube. If you are creating yarnovers, you are not binding off correctly.

CO 2 sts using knitted cast on. With larger needle, p3. [wyib, move 3 sts back to left needle, move working yarn around sts to front of left needle (not over needle), p2, p2tog] to end. Place sts back onto left needle, sl 1 st, p2tog, psso, fasten off. Remove provisional cast on from start of shawl - you will have 4 or 5 sts depending on your provisional cast-on method. Placing 2 sts on each of 2 needles, with right sides held together and WS facing, perform 3-needle bind-off with the center 5th stitch (if applicable) incorporated into the bind off as the final stitch. Weave in ends.

Weave in ends and wash using wool wash. Remove excess water from shawl and block using blocking wires and T-pins. Thread wires through top i-cord tube for a straight edge and through points along edges. Stretch shawl tight, and pin wires and bottom point. When thoroughly dry, unpin and enjoy!
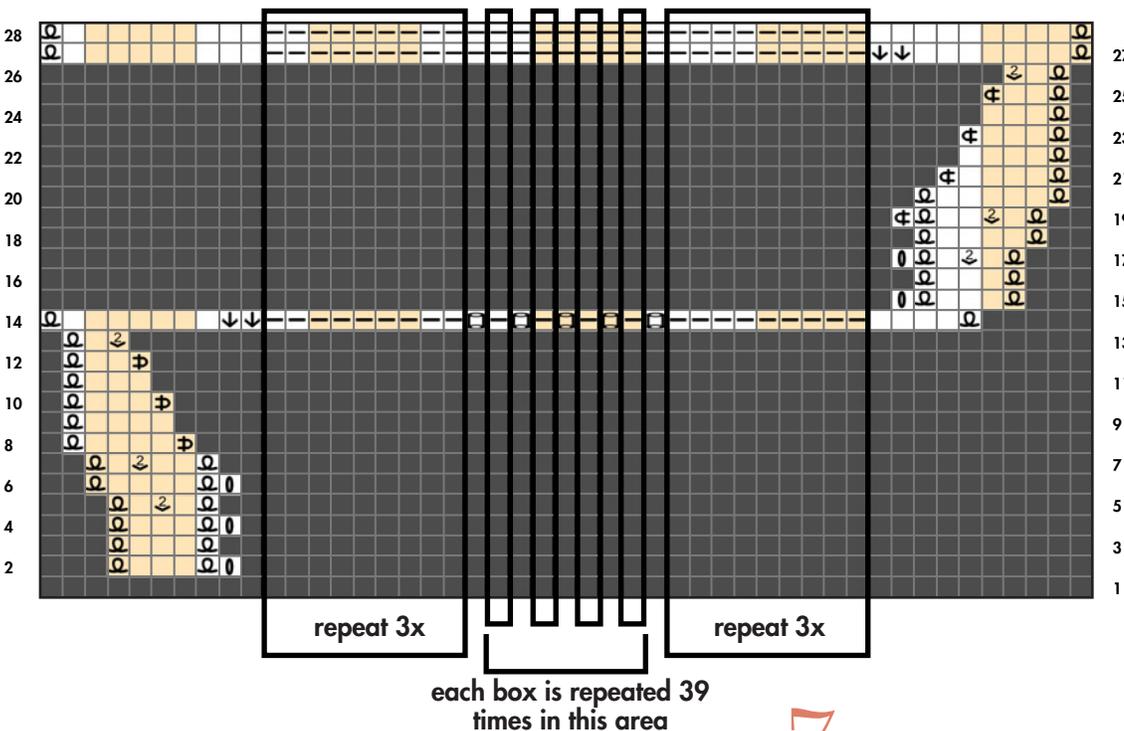

Chart D - both versions: note that chart numbering begins on row 2, a WS row, worked left to right on chart.
